Aidan

Aidan: Resilient. Passionate. Determined. Thankful. Hopeful. Aidan was diagnosed with stage IV neuroblastoma just days before his fifth birthday. He relapsed when he was nine, again when he was 15 and then again at age 19. Aidan is a rare four-time survivor. Cookies for Kids' Cancer helped fund three of the treatments he received and helped to save his life. Aidan and his family are forever grateful. Today Aidan is enjoying college at the University of Southern California. He does statistics for their women's basketball team and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. He loves basketball, movies, music, playing the piano, skiing and skydiving. Aidan is committed to giving back to Cookies for Kids' Cancer. Thank you for helping him to do so and for honoring him and his strength with these triple chocolate chunk cookies. Fight On!

Julie

Julie was diagnosed with a rare brain cancer a month after she turned four. She underwent eight months of intense chemotherapy and three equally intense bone-marrow transplants. Every day was long and every day was hard. Today she's six years cancer free and continues to be closely monitored. Julie is a thriving 11-year-old who loves to dance, the color orange and Dalmatians. Cancer treatment was the hardest eight months of our lives, but every penny counts to help find cures so no family has to go through this. We are forever grateful for the care we received at CHOP. #teamjules #julesrules

Makenzie

At 14 I was diagnosed with T-cell lymphoblastic lymphoma, a rare and aggressive form of acute lymphoblastic leukemia. I immediately started chemotherapy before doctors even had a confirmed diagnosis because of the severity. Within the first month I developed my first blood clot, which was later followed by five more, the worst in my brain. I had a stroke, seizures and brain bleeds. The blood clot formed as a result of my treatment. I went through years of therapies to recover from my stroke and the weakness caused by the treatment. I missed a year and a half of school because of the intensity of treatment, side effects and complications from my stroke. I finished treatment two and a half years after my diagnosis and have been cancer free since. I didn't make it through unscathed, but I did make it through with my life, which is why I am dedicated to bringing awareness to childhood cancer.

Christian

Christian Jose Fidalgo Barros, the youngest of five, filled his family's lives with joy the minute he was born. Adored by his siblings, Christian's first year was marked by endless joy and happiness. Just after turning one, however, he was diagnosed with neuroblastoma, a childhood cancer that is particularly challenging. Supported by dedicated doctors and nurses at Massachusetts General Hospital, he fought bravely and was declared cancer-free in October 2024. Sadly, the cancer returned a few weeks later, more aggressive than before. Christian's resilience was remarkable, but shortly after turning two, his little body grew weary, and he peacefully passed on. Though his life was brief, Christian touched countless hearts with his courage and spirit. We thank God everyday for two years of loving memories that continue to inspire us and ensure he will never be forgotten. His legacy endures in the love he shared with everyone who knew him.
